Foreword

Dr. Rano Mal Piryani, a Pakistani national of Sindhi origin, is a senior medical doctor and medical educationist serving in Nepal in various capacities since April 11, 2003. In spite of his professional relation with medical science, he loves to language, culture and literature. He thinks language is an authentic linkage to keep together to the people of different origin of the world. Keeping this in mind, he has tried to expose the thread of linkage making nearer to the people of Nepal and Pakistan through the study of respective languages. Thus he has tried to study the semantic and phonetic similarities of the words of some languages spoken in Nepal and Pakistan.

Nepali is a national language of Nepal as is Urdu in Pakistan. Dr. Piryani has studied the semantic and phonetic similarities of about two thousand words spoken in Nepali and Urdu and has compiled a glossary book entitled Dictionary of Nepali-Urdu and published in 2009. This book has become useful to the Nepali readers to understand the cultural nearness of the people of Nepal and Pakistan. Similarly, in his second attempt, a new book also has come out this year 2015 in the name of A Dictionary of Nepali-Sindhi. This book also is equally important to expose his love to the language and culture.

Sindhi is the mother tongue of Dr. Piryani. Like Urdu and Nepali, Sindhi is also the language of Indo-Aryan family. Nepali is written in Devanagari script and Sindhi is written in Arabic script like Urdu. The author of this second glossary book has given the semantic and phonetic similarities of more than two thousand words of both languages. For the convenience of the readers he has used the Roman script to write these words of both languages. I think these two thousand words of both languages having common semantic and phonetic identity will help the linguists of both countries to do further linguistic research in the related field.

This glossary book is equally useful to study the cultural similarities of the both countries. So it has also cultural value. I appreciate the love of Dr. Piryani's to the language, culture and literature and wish him all the best. I expect more such books from him in the days to come which will be helpful to promote the academic relation of Nepal and Pakistan.

Preface

This dictionary contains alike words of Nepali and Sindhi languages. Both Nepali and Sindhi are Indo Aryan languages. Nepali is written in Devanagri script while Sindhi almost in Arabic script. In this dictionary, alike words both of Nepali and Sindhi languages are written in Roman script and their meanings in English. People who know Nepali or Sindhi and English language to some extent can understand the contents of this dictionary easily and use effectively.

I am a medical doctor, not a linguistic but interested in learning languages, reading literature and poetry. I have been learning Nepali by interaction with people and reading news papers and books since my arrival in Nepal in April 2003. Meanwhile I realized that some of the words in both languages are similar in pronunciation, meaning or both. Both Sindhi and Nepali are rich languages with a vast vocabulary.

My mother tongue is Sindhi. My personal interest has motivated and provoked me to find out the alike words in both languages. I have referred some of the dictionaries of both Nepali and Sindhi languages besides interaction with common Nepali people. I acknowledge the people and authors of dictionaries referred in.

The words are compiled as per Nepali alphabetical order- अ (A) (।) to ह (H) (ه) .

First column contains Nepali word pronounced in English, second it's meaning in English, third alike word in Sindhi pronounced in English and fourth meaning in English. Abbreviation in bracket besides word denotes grammar.

This dictionary contains more than two thousands Nepali words which are alike to Sindhi; the similar words may be more than these. My quest to uncover other words continues and will try to bring second edition.

This dictionary may be the foundation for further research work to be conducted by scholars of both languages.

There might be shortcomings in the book, your suggestions and comments will help and encourage me to bring out second edition. You may please communicate at r_piryani@yahoo.com or r_piryani@hotmail.com.

I appreciate the support of my family in bringing out this book. I am indebted to all persons who have encouraged and motivated me to bring out this booklet.
